OVERVIEW OF JAMAICA'S AGRIBUSINESS SECTOR

Jamaica is known globally for the quality of its products and delicious cuisine.

These attributes have led to high demand for high-quality Jamaican fresh produce and value-added food products. With an expansive local market and the country's proximity to key export markets, Jamaica's agribusiness sector will remain lucrative for years to come.

Agribusiness promises great rewards for investors because of the wide array of non-traditional crops, thriving animal husbandry, fish farming activities, and value-added food manufacturing taking place on the island.

Contributing approximately 7.7% to the country's GDP, this sector has considerable potential, and with crops with unique flavour profiles, the country's strategic location, and Jamaica's sizeable market reach, agribusiness is positioned to be a leader in the country's economic growth.
